We're Working Together Like Family & Friends!

As millions of Americans help us to promote the mission of the Buy American Made Campaign, we are seeing that more jobs are being restored in America by businesses making and selling products with Made in America labels. It is also good to hear that more people are concerned about American based businesses and American workers, whether shopping at brick and mortar stores or on the Internet.

It is without question that it was much easier to create new jobs before outsourcing began because America's industries were fully operational. Today, we have a skilled workers gap and find that America's students need more exposure to all levels of present day and future job possibilities. In order to address the skilled workers gap we need all family, friends and neighbors to promote the full restoration of Trades and Technology programs in addition to math, history and science. America's schools need to insure that students know how to learn and know what they want to do to earn a living by the time they begin the 9th grade. Quite frankly, America needs tens-of-millions of new young workers ready and able to replace the skilled workers that have or are planning to retire.

We have all experienced the results of poor national leadership and see that it's time for us to be like one big family working together to insure that America's youth will have more than enough jobs available in every aspect of employment from research and development, manufacturing products, advertising, selling, shipping and servicing products proudly Made in the United States of America.

Supporters of the Buy American Made Campaign have made it known they do not want to be a nation of consumers, but a nation that produces enough products and jobs to serve the needs of the American people and also offer American made products for sale around the world. Spread the word to your family and friends and thanks for your concern for your fellow-Americans and the millions of businesses located across America and offering jobs to American workers.
