A New Year for American Made!

The New Year brings us NEW opportunities to support one another and promote ways to support the businesses employing American workers.

Holiday gift buying continued to open the eyes of America's consumers as they went shopping for American made and found large numbers of products manufactured overseas. The questions consumers are asking are "Why can't more of these items be made in America" and "how did we let this happen to America's industries in the first place?" These are good questions, but the main question continues to be, "why aren't items like televisions, cell phones, computers, light bulbs, clothing and thousands of others no longer made in America?" The prices we are being charged at the cash register for imported items certainly reflect prices that should support items competitively made in America.

As we work to restore manufacturing in America, we must always consider that manufacturing jobs creates many levels of additional job opportunities that are needed to get the products to market. American workers need these jobs and as more people seek out American made items, employment opportunities will increase and more American dollars will be circulated in the United States of America.

For the present and future well-being of America, support everything possible that is American made so we can restore competitive American made products for sale in the U.S.A. and for export around the world.
