During this very special time of year, there would normally be many occasions to celebrate holiday events together with family and friends. We all see that the coronavirus has unfortunately caused the cancellation of family and community events. This year we will need to celebrate the holidays through social media and the Internet. As we move forward to resolve the difficulties caused by the coronavirus, everyone is encouraged to take the advice of health care specialists so that additional people are not infected.

As you're in contact with family and friends during this holiday season, be sure to promote the efforts of the Buy American Made Campaign, which seeks to unite people to support our, the place where live and seek to enjoy health and prosperity.

As you're looking on the Internet, check out the many products being advertised to see where they are made and if there is a balance between American made and foreign made products available. These are changing times in the world. Take time to look out for products made and assembled in the United States so American workers can support themselves and add to the well-being of America's future.

Thanks for your personal participation. More information about our efforts is outlined on the front page of: AmericanWorkersRadio.com

Kindly spread the word.
